Who is to blame for the death of Romeo and Juliet?

Teacher's Model

Claim = yellow

Evidence = green

Analysis = purple & gray

If you have trouble seeing the colors highlighted below, please ask someone to help you mark the text.

Friar Laurence is most to blame for Romeo and Juliet's deaths because he is the one who proposed the plan to fake their suicide. In the play, Friar Laurence says to Juliet, 'Take thou this vial, being then in bed/ And this distilled liquor drink thou off;/ ... The roses in thy lips and cheeks shall fade/ ... And in this borrow'd likeness of shrunk death/ Thou shalt continue two and forty hours,/And then awake as from a pleasant sleep' (4.1.93-106). This quote shows that Friar Laurence is the originator of the plan for the two lovers to fake their deaths. Had he not posed this plan, Romeo could not have mistaken Juliet for dead. Thus, he would never have committed suicide, nor Juliet. As the adult in the situation, Friar Laurence should have acted less rashly and helped the couple find a more suitable solution to their problems.
